Glue Addict Boy Charged In Rape-Murder Of Girls

DETROIT (AP)—A 14-year-old boy with a glue-sniffing habit was held without bond in the Wayne County Youth Home today, charged with the rape-murder of two little sisters as they walked home from school.

The two girls—Deborah Louise Crowther, 8, and her sister, Kimberly, 6—were assaulted and strangled as they walked across a field from school Friday toward their home in the Detroit suburb of Westland. Authorities said the 14-year-old suspect, whose name was withheld, had sniffed glue only a couple of hours before the double slaying.

Prosecutor William Cahalan said that because of his age the boy could not be tried as an adult for any crime, including murder. Under Michigan law, a juvenile must be 15 or older before authorities can petition courts to allow an adult trial.

The fresh tubes of airplane glue and about three dozen empty tubes were found in the brush near the scene of the brutal slayings.

Glue sniffing reportedly has become a fad among some teen-aged youngsters in recent years, and medical specialists say it brings on the same kind of feeling that is caused by drinking alcoholic beverages.

Investigators discovered that the 14-year-old boy, with two other boys and one girl, had sniffed glue Friday shortly before the murders.

Dr. Edward Domino of the University of Michigan Medical School said that under the influence of glue "a person's inhibitions are released, and he is apt to do things he normally would not do if he were in control of himself."

Westland Police Chief Garrison Clayton said discovery of the glue kits gave police their first major lead in the case. He said the two boys and a girl who were at the glue-sniffing party had given evidence pointing to the 14-year-old.

Police said the suspect had run away from his home three weeks ago and had been booked at the Juvenile Home as a runaway.

British Hedge Bid For Joining Europe Market

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Cabinet agreed Sunday that Britain should try again to join the European Common Market, but it set conditions apparently to assure protection of its trading interests.

The conditions were kept secret. They were part of a compromise agreement reached at an eight-hour meeting at Chequers, the prime minister's official country home.

Wilson sought a free hand to negotiate Britain's entry into the six-nation customs union. But seven or eight of the 21 Cabinet ministers are known to oppose British entry. They stressed the economic risks and tried to attach conditions that might cripple British negotiators at Common Market headquarters in Brussels.

Officials said the compromise forestalled, at least for now, any resignations by these ministers.

Britain tried to join the Common Market in 1963, but its application was vetoed by French President Charles de Gaulle. Continental supporters of the British candidacy have urged Wilson to join as quickly as possible then negotiate the best possible deal from the inside.

The critics in Britain want to arrange safeguards before they agree to membership.

The agreement is to be ratified at a formal Cabinet meeting Tuesday and announced to Parliament and the nation shortly after.

Reuther Blasts Coup In Greece

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther sharply criticized the military coup in Greece Sunday, urging an immediate halt to the "substantial military assistance" which the U.S. is sending to that nation.

Reuther also demanded suspension of American economic aid to Greece pending restoration of "political freedom and representative government" there.

The president of the 1.5-million-member UAW made his statements in a cablegram to King Constantine II of Greece and in letters to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and congressional foreign policy leaders.

Reuther said the union and its members are deeply concerned and disturbed by the recent military coup in Greece where he said thousands of opposition leaders have been jailed, freedom suppressed and other democratic institutions suspended.

In his cablegram to King Constantine II, Reuther said the UAW's membership "cannot accept the transparent attempt to justify this action by the charge that the arrested were Communists."

Reds May Day Blast At U.S. Milder In Tone

MOSCOW (AP)—Marshal Andrei A. Grechko, the new Soviet defense minister, opened May Day ceremonies in Red Square today with standard Soviet attacks on the United States, West Germany and Red China.

No new weapons were among the 330 that rumbled through the square in the annual parade. Observers believe the armed forces are saving up surprise weapons for a splash display on Nov. 7, the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Workers throughout the Eastern Hemisphere and in parts of Latin America celebrated labor's traditional day. Although Labor Day is celebrated in September in the United States, American groups held loyalty marches Saturday in cities from Newport, Ore., to New York.

The Moscow parade displayed anti-aircraft rockets of the kind used in North Vietnam against American planes, antiballistic missiles and 110-foot intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Among those on the reviewing stand were Communist party Secretary General Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Blames Chinese Grechko made a milder speech than usually came from his predecessor, the late Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky.

In his six-minute speech, he charged that the "monopolistic bourgeoisie" in the United States are responsible for the Vietnamese war.

"The end of the imperialist aggressors' gamble in Vietnam would approach much quicker if there were unity of action of all Socialist countries including China, in rendering help to the fraternal Vietnamese people," Grechko said.

Chinese Charge d'Affaires An Chih-yuan and an aide walked out in protest against the mention of China.

The 63-year-old defense minister also accused some elements in West Germany of increasing their activity to change European frontiers and get nuclear weapons.

Scuffle At Zoo In Saigon, students scuffled with police following a May Day rally at the Saigon Zoo. The rally was among four held by labor unions in the city. Some students and labor union members unfurled banners calling for an end to the war. When police moved in to seize the banners, the scuffling began.

Orderly rallies were held in 800 Japanese cities and towns by an estimated 8.5 million Japanese. Socialist party Chairman Kozo Sasaki set the tone for a Tokyo rally by declaring that "American imperialism in Vietnam poses a dire threat to world peace."

The president of the North Vietnam Federation of Trade Unions told a May Day gathering in Hanoi that the Vietnamese people "would never negotiate under the threat of bombs."

The Communist Vietnam News Agency reported that the atmosphere in Hanoi was "seething with fighting spirit."

Inland Denies Purchasing Of Imported Steel

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressman's charge that American steel companies probably imported much of the foreign steel from which they want trade protection is denied by one major producer.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., raised the charge Sunday in a report to the House on the 70-nation trade talks at Geneva.

Joseph L. Block, board chairman of Inland Steel Corp., said in Chicago his firm "has purchased no imported steel and has no intention of doing so."

Roger Blough, head of U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel manufacturer, scheduled a news conference for this afternoon.

Curtis said the U.S. steel industry "has more than held its own against competing materials," and added that "the very industries whose representatives are opposing imports in Washington may be in fact large purchasers of foreign steel."

Block said Curtis "has given credence to certain shovelry, discredited and false comments made by individuals not truly familiar with the industry."

Block said foreign steel is entering U.S. markets below domestic prices because of overseas government subsidies and cheaper labor costs.

He said "special temporary legislation should be enacted by the Congress to partially close this gap."

The steel industry launched a drive Feb. 8 for enactment of a temporary levy on steel imports in order to, it said, protect an essential defense industry and maintain living standards of American workers.

Curtis said, "Though the portion of the U.S. market taken by imports is larger, the total steel pie has increased so much that there has been no damage."

He said U.S. steel companies probably bought steel abroad rather than admit to old customers that they could not supply steel and perhaps lose them.

Curtis said, "Conditions in the steel industries of Europe and Britain make the United States steel industry look like a very healthy hypochondriac." But he also discounted any threat to European industry from what his report called widening American leadership in productivity.

Huge Jet Go-Ahead Given

WASHINGTON (AP)—Manufacturers waiting for months for the signal from Washington to begin work on the construction of two prototypes of a supersonic jet airliner have been turned loose and told to get moving on the project.

The go-ahead came Saturday from President Johnson.

It was followed immediately by statements from the two principal contractors, the Boeing Co. and General Electric, that they were prepared to proceed swiftly.

They hope to fly the first SST in 1970.

The firms had to wait for the starting gun to be sounded in Washington because government money—perhaps a billion dollars or more—will be poured into the prototypes.

Government funds are subsidizing the project on the theory that the development costs are going to be so great private industry shouldn't be expected to bear the burden alone.

In addition, putting American SSTs in the air is tied up with questions of national pride. The Soviets are already well along in developing theirs and the British and French are collaborating on one.

The Boeing-GE prototypes, individually crafted planes which will prove or disprove the designers' theories, are expected to fly 1,800 miles an hour—more than twice the speed of sound—and be big enough to carry 300 passengers.

The price tag on an SST, when finally ready for purchase by commercial airlines in this country and abroad, has been estimated at $35 million to $40 million per plane.

Bloody Fight On Vietnamese Hill Kills 86 Marines

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. pilots shot down three more communist MIG's over North Vietnam today while just south of the demilitarized zone U. S. Marines suffered and inflicted heavy casualties battling North Vietnamese soldiers for a strategic hill.

A Marine spokesman said 49 Marines were killed and 156 wounded as they fought foot by foot Sunday up the slopes of twin-peaked Hill 881.

The Marines have had 86 men killed and 240 wounded in the past week in the area.

The spokesman said the Marines killed 180 Communists. Elements of two Marine battalions clung to their positions overnight and moved forward today in a new attempt to take the summit for use as an outpost for checking North Vietnamese movements. There are reported to be 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars in and around the demilitarized zone, possibly poised for a major assault.

As the Marines halted their advance late Sunday, tactical bombers and B52s dumped tons of explosives on the North Vietnamese positions.

The air war flared to a new intensity with 133 missions over North Vietnam and a record 577 strikes over the South.

Two U.S. Army helicopters collided over the Bien Hoa Air base, 13 miles northwest of Saigon, late today and all eight crewmen in the two craft were killed, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Navy Pilots Gets MIGs The MIG kills brought to 48 the total number reported shot down in the war, including four in the last two days. The U.S. command has announced the loss of 13 U.S. planes to MIGs.

There was no announcement whether any U.S. planes were lost in the latest dogfights, but in a delayed report the U.S. command said an Air Force F4-C Phantom was downed by ground fire April 29. The two crewmen were listed as missing. It was the 522nd American plane reported lost over the North.

U.S. Navy pilots from 7th Fleet carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin were credited with bagging two of the MIGs today. Whether they were the late-model 21s or the earlier, less-maneuverable 17s was not known. The specific area where they were shot down was not announced.

In the third kill, a U.S. Air Force Phantom drove a MIG17 into the ground during a dogfight between eight F4C Phantoms out of Da Nang Airbase and eight MIGs about 20 miles southwest of Hanoi.

The three kills made a total of nine MIGs downed in the past week.

Hit Haiphong Storage Despite four attacks on MIG bases in the past week—the first time they were attacked in the war—more and more of the Communist interceptors are being sent up to oppose the American raiders.

Air Force pilots pounded Communist rail lines and yards in the Hanoi area during 65 missions over the North Sunday. The Air Force missions were the largest since last Oct. 12, when 66 were flown. Navy pilots, hitting at storage areas northeast of the port city of Haiphong and communication lines in the southern panhandle, logged 58 missions. Marine pilots added another 10.

In a major raid Sunday on the Ha Gia railroad yards and sidings north of Hanoi, Air Force pilots reported hundreds of feet of track ripped up by 750-pound bombs as they flew through heavy anti-aircraft fire and MIG interceptors.

Two persons died at Albert Lea, near the Iowa border, another two at Owatonna, about 50 miles south of Minneapolis, and one each at the small hamlets of Allen, Freeborn and Clarks Grove.

The death-dealing twisters, possibly as many as six, roared through the area in the midst of heavy rains.

Huge waves on Lake Superior in Duluth, Minn., swept three teen-age brothers off a pier to their deaths and a Coast Guard man died in a vain rescue attempt. Another scaman was injured searching for the youths and was hospitalized.

Police said high waves driven by powerful winds knocked Erick Halverson, 18, and his 17-year-old twin brothers, Nathan and Art, off a pier into Lake Superior. Boatswain Mate 1st Class Edgar A. Culbertson also was washed off the breakwater and drowned.

Hundreds of travelers were stranded in the western Dakotas Sunday night by a spring blizzard which the Weather Bureau described as the worst storm in the area's history for so late in the year.

Gov. William L. Guy declared a state of emergency in North Dakota to permit emergency vehicles on highways to repair telephone and power facilities and help stranded motorists.

Up to a foot of snow fell over wide areas of the western Dakotas and winds to 60 miles an hour were reported by the Weather Bureau. The Black Hills of South Dakota received almost two feet of snow.

There were no reports of deaths of persons injured, but a state official said, "That doesn't mean nobody's missing. The communications are cut so many places we really don't know what's going on."

Traffic Takes 20 In Weekend A two-car crash on M50 four miles west of Monroe claimed two lives Sunday night, boosting Michigan's weekend traffic death toll to 20.

The toll was one of the heaviest for any weekend this year. William G. Brooks, 23, and Mrs. Thelma K. Reckart, 49, both of Monroe, were killed in the M50 crash.

Police said a car in which Mrs. Reckart was a passenger swung onto M50 from a side road and collided with the Brooks vehicle.

Huge Waves At Duluth Claim Four Victims

By The Associated Press A land of twisters thundered across a 50-mile-wide area of southern Minnesota Sunday night, leaving 16 persons dead, more than 100 injured and property damage estimated in the millions.

The twisters fanned outward from an intense storm that hit the Dakotas with up to 2 feet of snow, hurricane-force winds and temperatures in the teens. Visibility was cut to zero in parts of South Dakota for more than 10 hours.

Twisters also struck Oklahoma, Texas, South Dakota and Iowa. Funnel clouds that did not touch down were sighted in Missouri and Arkansas. Thunder storms with hail and heavy rains extended from the Gulf to the Great Lakes.

Frost and freeze warnings were issued for the Rocky Mountain states and a hard freeze was expected for portions of Kansas and Nebraska.

In contrast, southerly airflow into the eastern third of the nation produced warm weather from Florida to New England.

Waseca, a town of 1,100 about 80 miles southwest of Minneapolis, was hardest hit by the tornadoes that struck at the dinner hour. Five bodies were recovered and a search for victims continued through the night.

U.P. Placed In Central Zone

WASHINGTON — Congressman Phil Ruppe says that under provisions of the Uniform Time Act of 1966 the Upper Peninsula of Michigan is officially in the Central Time Zone. The act can be enforced by the Department of Transportation through application to the Federal District Court for the district where a violation occurs.

However, Ruppe has been informed that because most of the Upper Peninsula has historically observed Eastern Standard Time, deviations from the provisions of the act will be allowed during the initial transition period. The Department of Transportation has asked federal installations to observe Eastern Standard Time throughout the state.

"Since areas of the Upper Peninsula traditionally on Central Time are now observing Central Daylight, the equivalent of Eastern Standard, this should resolve our problems for the time being," Ruppe said.

Ruppe said Governor Romney and Attorney General Kelley are submitting a petition to the Transportation Department requesting that the Eastern Time Zone boundary be changed to include the entire state. "I expect the Department to begin enforcing provisions of the law once it has acted on the petition from Lansing," Ruppe said.

The Webster Youth Center, sponsored by the City of Escanaba in cooperation with the Escanaba Area Public Schools, held its final activities of the season last Thursday night and will be closed until next fall.

The northside center located in the basement of the Webster School has been open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 throughout the winter months and was conducted under the direction of Erwood Slade and Darrel Bengry, members of the staff of the local school system.

The following games and exercises were included as part of the program of recreational activities offered to the young people of the area: basketball, volleyball, dancing, weight lifting, table tennis, tumbling and table games.

The facility has been in operation for eight years and has been effective in meeting the social needs of many boys and girls who find it inconvenient to attend Club 314. The center was well-attended during the past year, especially in January and February when the unusually severe weather curtailed outdoor sports.

Reykjavik, capital of Iceland, has an average temperature of 35 degrees in January. New York's temperature averages 30 degrees that month. A current extending from the Gulf Stream is responsible for the milder temperature in the Reykjavik area.

Ontario Plans Wolf Controls

TORONTO — Rene Brunelle, minister of lands and forests, announced in the Legislature, that the Department plans to extend its present wolf management program to assist areas in Ontario where further wolf control is necessary, by training and appointing additional predator control officers and by conducting predator control workshops in locations where wolves are a menace to livestock or game animals.

The existing wolf management control program is based on facts revealed by a research program conducted over a 10-year period by department and university specialists, which indicates that wolf populations can be controlled in areas where it is indicated there is a need, through efficient trapping methods. Poison will not be used.

Brunelle stated the department has no plans to change its present policy to permit hunting or trapping in Algonquin Provincial Park or to raise the bounty on wolves, since there is no real proof that an increased bounty would reduce wolf numbers in the areas needing control.

Lake Shore Inc. Struck Today By Steelworkers

With the expiration of a collective bargaining agreement at midnight last night, The United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO) called a strike against Lake Shore, Inc., affecting more than 330 production, maintenance and warehouse employees at Kingsford, Iron Mountain and Marquette.

This is the first strike of Lake Shore operations in the modern history of the company. Federal and state mediators have been working with both sides since April 13.

Wage increases included in the company's offer would have been retroactive to Dec. 1, 1966. In separate membership meeting held Sunday afternoon the Marquette employees ratified the agreement, but the Iron Mountain employees rejected it.

The present straight time average hourly rate for employees on strike is $2.52 an hour. In addition these employees have been receiving benefits totaling 88 cents an hour, bringing their total earnings to $3.40 an hour.

The company's 48 cent offer would have raised the hourly employment cost to $3.88 per hour.

The total payroll, not including benefits for the employees affected, is in excess of $1,800,000 per year. The economic loss to the Upper Peninsula will be in excess of $100,000 a week for the duration of the shutdown, the company said.

During the strike the company will not attempt to maintain operations at its manufacturing plants at Kingsford and Marquette and its parts depot in Iron Mountain.

Clerical, technical and other administrative employees at the operation will continue to work as necessary.

No further meetings or negotiations are scheduled between the parties.

Of the 300 employees 165 are at Iron Mountain and the rest at Marquette. Lake Shore is a manufacturer of maritime and mining machinery.

Community Decision

The Rapid River School District has troubles not all of its own making. The district is composed of the townships of Masonville, Ensign and Bay de Noc and its schools are in Rapid River.

The district is not populous and it doesn't have a high tax valuation, being rural without any large communities or large industries. Its total valuation upon which taxes can be levied to support its schools is only $5.9 million. By contrast, neighboring Wells Township has a valuation of about $14 million, thanks to the big pulp and paper mill complex of Mead Corp.

Last year the Rapid River District lost its school accreditation. This is somewhat like a patient's losing a doctor's pronouncement of good health. It signifies that the district has failed to meet the standards set by the accrediting agency; in this case the University of Michigan's Bureau of School Services. That these standards are not impossible for the district to meet is shown by the fact of its previous accreditation.

The removal of accreditation was a shock to the parents of the district. Who wants their children going to an inferior school?

The effort to win accreditation again, not so much for the label as for the excellence of school service which it signifies, was started at a public meeting of the school administration, citizens and a representative of the Bureau of School Services. This process has now reached the point where the district will be asked to provide more income to pay for the better texts, building changes to permit smaller classes, and the other needs prescribed by the Bureau.

The three-township district will vote on Monday, May 15 on a proposal to levy 5 mills for three years. It will only bring in $29,000 a year for the district, but this will greatly help the process of school improvement.

It should get an overwhelming endorsement by the voters as an acknowledgement that they are actively concerned about the education of their children. And it should be but one step in a march toward better school organization.

Delta County has organized its school districts like many other counties of Michigan along the lines of natural flow. This takes pretty good care of the more populous and higher valued areas like the Escanaba Area and the Gladstone Area, but it leaves the fringes with too few students and too little tax valuation to support a good school program, as this is viewed today.

Rapid River's school dilemma is duplicated at Bark River, and also in the eastern side of Delta County, where Cooks, Nahma, Garden and Fairbanks have voted to consolidate. It would probably take state sponsorship of a countywide study to initiate a master plan for school districting because the present districts have enough problems without voting themselves more.

But situations like that at Rapid River, where the real solution to the problem could come in merger for greater enrollment and resources, should have a friendly and helpful inspection by the state and by all county elements of education.

While this is being considered, however, there should be no putting off of a "YES" vote on the millage on Monday, May 13. The children only go to school once. Improvement of the Rapid River District in the future won't help them now. But that millage will! The levy is not large and it is truly needed.

Oswald: "What do you think is the hardest task of a good partnership?"

Jim: "There are lots of tough problems but I think the toughest is to make your conventions work for you when you have to vary them."

Oswald: "Sounds like double talk. I guess you mean that a good partner has to improvise and be understood."

Jim: "Here is a hand that helped my team win the Vanderbilt this year. There was nothing to the play at six hearts. I won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs; drew trumps and conceded a diamond trick in order to discard one of my spades on that trick and two more on long diamonds."

Oswald: "I see you would not have made six spades on account of the bad break there but that you could have handled a 4-1 heart break."

Jim: "My opening spade bid was standard. With two five card suits, open with the higher ranking one. My four heart bid after Bobby jumped to three spades showed that I held five hearts in addition to five spades so that Bobby was able to move toward the slam by means of Blackwood. His five no-trump call indicated that he held all four aces and that he was interested in seven."

Oswald: "He would have gone on to six no-trump if you had shown two kings, wouldn't he?"

Jim: "Yes, indeed, but when I showed one king only he realized that we should play the hand in my better suit. Hence his six heart bid. He left it to me to decide between my two suits."

Oswald: "Did your opponents get to the spade slam and go down?"

Jim: "No. They stopped at four spades and made five so we gained 780 points or 13 International Match Points."

"I am walking beside you in the supermarket!"

Do Shoppers Need Protection Or IQ?

By AILEEN SNOODY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Johnson assured the housewife that "I am walking beside you in the supermarket."

Obviously his message reached only the women. And, as comforting as his earlier words may have seemed to some, the President in a recent consumer-protection message to Congress again took steps to see that not he alone will watch over the shopper on her daily rounds. His voiced concern over the daily problems facing the 50 million families in the market place may take hold this year.

If Lyndon Johnson has his way with the 90th Congress, the government will wrap a protective arm around the put-upon consumer.

Shoppers' experience, though, shows it takes a while for things to filter down.

The President's message has far-reaching implications. It touches the desires and decisions of the buyer, the borrower, the businessman, the manufacturer, the advertiser, everyone who makes the U.S. economy tick.

For this reason, expect sparks to fly in all directions.

Significant goodies asked by the President included proposals for new or revised legislation affecting truth in lending, consumer health, flammable fabrics, protection against hazards in the home, and assurance of wholesome meat.

The Senate Consumer subcommittee. The subcommittee headed by Senate Warren G. Magnuson, (D-Wash.) early this year proposed six bills for introduction to the 90th Congress:

• A National Commission on Hazardous Household Products.

• A thorough revision of the Flammable Fabrics Act.

• A Cigarette Tar and Nicotine Disclosure Act.

• A Fair Credit Advertising Act.

• A Door-to-Door Sales Act.

Magnuson is confident that the President plans to back up his leap into consumer action.

Observers of congressional machinations recall the packaging and labeling act which the 89th Congress finally passed after five years of foot-dragging. Manufacturers, their packaging experts and advertising agencies, asked by law to set up voluntary standards, still have until July 1 to meet these regulations.

The Fair Packaging and Labeling Act was one of four measures to come out of the 89th Congress aimed at the consumer. The others are the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act, the Child Protection Act, the Cigarette Labeling Act and creation of the Consumer subcommittee.

Businessmen leave little doubt that the recent presidential message argued proposals for consumer protection in feeding, health and safety is leading acid to many a corporate ulcer.

The question put to businessmen was whether manufacturers were the harem of the wall. Will the police dangerous or fraudulent practices that hurt the consumer to dodge more federal, state or local intervention?

On the heels of the auto safety legislation, businessmen told the reporter "We will co-operate because it is good business to do so."

However, outspoken Earl W. Kintner, former Federal Trade Commission head, feels government is going too far in a speech before the American Advertising Federation he said it is government's function to establish and enforce basic ground rules—the government is the referee rather than the participant.

Experts here say simply that the position of the government is to try to do for the consumer what he won't do for himself and what industry won't do for him.

Meanwhile, manufacturers privately take the point of view, according to a trade association executive, that "I made the product and I can control it economically."

This view comes out strongly, for example, in a Federal Trade Commission move to prevent a food manufacturer from marketing the same brand at two different prices.

The manufacturer's point of make product changes to protect the consumer or cut down on deceptive trade practices. They have the attitude expressed by Gale Gotschall of the FTC that "a reputable businessman suffers just as much as the consumer from bad business practices."

Firms such as J. C. Penney and Sears, Roebuck maintain test labs and work with their vendors to upgrade merchandise. The willingness of some courts to favor the consumer over the manufacturer in liability suits also makes firms take a closer look at their minimum safety standards and tighten assembly line inspections.

Industry also cites the effectiveness of industry standardization of such items as air-conditioning equipment through use of BTU (British Thermal Unit) ratings to help the consumer. Before the ratings few consumers knew whether their new air conditioner would really do its job in X amount of space.

They also cite the action of textile industry leaders in the last year to consider standardizing and clarifying labels. Aren't these steps proof of industry's good intentions, business asks?

In a sense, yes. Staff members of Esther Peterson's President's Committee for Consumer Interests (soon to be taken over by Betty Furness) point out that until recently few textile executives or makers of small appliances, for example, would even consider being in the same room together.

Business generally feels there are adequate laws now to redress any consumer wrongs. It is up to the consumer to find them, it seems. Spokesmen for business through associations are even more articulate in their opposition to any further federal intervention.

The President's Committee on Consumer Interests points out that two groups need the most protection from federal, state and local governments. These are the poverty-stricken and the elderly.

It is estimated there are 10 million American families living in or on the doorstep of poverty. Allied with them are the retired or elderly called "the most intense consumers."

These really are the full-time consumers who must get the most for their money.

However, the politicians who may use the consumer bills to lock in '68 votes are thinking of the midstate, those who supposedly can read, write and who should be equipped to buy wisely. "We are concerned with the middle class. They could use their money to better purposes."

That they find it difficult to do so when shopping comes out in a study revealed by the President's Consumer Advisory Council. College-educated shoppers directed to select the least expensive package in 20 product categories failed 43 percent of the time, at an extra cost of 9 percent. This is one argument for federal action to help the consumer.

Another point is that "the consumer must be a chemist, mechanic, electrician and nutritionist to fathom what he is buying, what it will do, how well it will perform and endure, and how to take care of it."

According to Gale Gotschall, assistant counsel for the FTC, in the last year there has been a 40 percent increase in deceptive practice complaints. He feels, though, that this reflects "not so much an increase in actual deceptive practices going on in the economy but more awareness of the consumer of availability of aid."

Yet he also answers the question, "Does the consumer know where to go for help?" with "I doubt it."

People, Events Of Yesteryears

25 Years Ago

Fred Walker, 700 S. 10th St., Escanaba, was one of eight seniors at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton who were pledged to Taw Beta Pi, a 57 year-old honorary scholastic fraternity.

Delta county was given a quota of $96,800 for the sales of defense bonds and stamps during the month of May, Charles Lewis, chairman of the U. S. Defense Savings committee announced. The American Legion in Escanaba announced that it would launch a house-to-house canvass to obtain pledges for regular investment in defense bonds and stamps.

50 Years Ago

The trout fishing season officially opened today, but cold weather and high water in all of the streams kept the greater portion of the fishermen home. The water level was reported to be higher than it has been for a number of years.

Despite rumors to the contrary, the Escanaba men who were sent to Jefferson Barracks and enlisted in the army are well satisfied with the "army grub." At least four Escanaba men there have confirmed this point in letters home.

The Doctor Says:

Arthritis Is Not Vision Blur Cause

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have spots that seem to float before my right eye. Is there any cure for this?

A—Practically everyone at one time or another sees these floaters. They are the shadows of loose cells that are lodged in the jellylike mass in back of the lens. They may appear as dark spots or as a chain of dark rings with clear centers. Although they are annoying at times they don't interfere with your vision and, since there is no way to get rid of them, most people learn to disregard them.

Q—Would hardening of the arteries or arthritis cause blurred vision?

A—There are many causes of blurred vision. Hardening of the arteries in the retina is one possibility; arthritis is not.

Q—My doctor says I have meibomitis in both eyes. Is this serious?

A—The Meibomian glands are small glands in the upper and lower eyelids near the lid margin. A cyst in one of these glands is called a chalazion. Inflammation of these glands without any blocking of their ducts is treated by expressing the gland's secretions and applying yellow oxide of mercury ointment. The condition usually clears up after several days of this treatment.

Q—What is the cause and treatment of blepharitis?

A—This inflammation of the eyelids is associated with chronic conjunctivitis. It may be caused by uncorrected farsightedness or astigmatism or by irritating cosmetics applied to the eyelashes. The disease is often hard to cure. The lids should be kept free of crusts and scales and yellow oxide ointment should be applied every night.

Q—My eye doctor says that I have vertical imbalance in my left eye. He says that glasses will not help this condition. What do you think?

A—Sometimes this imbalance can be corrected by prescribed exercises with prisms, and sometimes including a prism in your prescription for glasses helps. Much would depend on the degree of imbalance and how much it bothers you.

Romantic Is Word For Viking Funeral

Dear Ann Landers: My great uncle is 84 years old. Up until last year he was in very good health. Recently his health has been failing. Last week uncle told us he plans to revise his will. We were shocked at what he wants in it. Uncle insists on having a Viking funeral. I did not know what a Viking funeral was until he explained it. The dead person is put into a boat, the boat is set afire and shoved out to the sea.

Uncle explained that this would not be against the law as the piece of property he owns has a lake on it. The lake could be used instead of the sea.

According to uncle, the authorities have no say about what happens on private property. I think this is rather romantic way to go. The rest of the family is appalled. Do you feel we should let uncle have his wish? — SPOKESMAN FOR THE RELATIVES

Dear Spokesman: It is not up to me to decide. Your state has burial laws and I know of no state which would permit a Viking funeral—even on a privately owned lake.

Dear Ann Landers: I agree completely with your praise of individuals who are married to wheelchair invalids. Now may I add a word of praise to those who are married to another kind of cripple, the cripple whose incapacity often cannot be seen, for it is emotional instead of physical.

The unsung heroes and heroines in my book are those who are married to life's loser—the severe neurotics, the alcoholics, the hypochondriacs, the born failures, the weak sisters.

What strength and dignity is required to hold up one's head, and make no apologies for a stumbling mate. I have seen such people and my heart goes out to them. One cannot say, "You are noble. You are brave. I admire you." One can only write to Ann Landers and hope the right people see it. Thank you for allowing me to speak my mind. — NO BARGAIN MYSELF

Dear Bargain: I agree with every word you say. It's your signature I don't buy. Insight such as yours makes you a very big bargain, indeed. Thanks for writing. I hope, with you, that the right people see your letter and take heart.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever you are by talking about them a fellow brings me home from selves.

a date and I sit in his car for more than 20 minutes my mom flashes the porch light off and on continuously until I come into the house.

She should be happy we are out in front, instead of parking on some lonely road. She should also be happy that nine-tenths of that time we are only talking.

I feel that a high school senior should not have to be signaled into the house by her mother. It is very embarrassing to be treated like a small child. Help me, please. — SICK O' BLINK-IN

Dear Blinkin: Since one-tenth of 20 minutes is only two minutes, I suggest that you get THAT part over with immediately, then bring the fellow into the house.

I am in favor of girls bringing their fellows home for a little visiting after a date. They should be given complete privacy, but a light should be burning, four feet should be on the floor at all times and all hands should be on deck.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sportsmen More Knowing

By LEE SMITS

How reasonable do you think you are?

Would you say that you have an open mind; that your opinions are based on common sense and plain logic?

If you're a hunter, fisherman, boater, camper, hiker, bird-watcher, dog-trainer, trapper, you are probably unreasonable in some degree. Psychologists tell us that outdoor pursuits are motivated by an instinct almost as urgent as the reproductive drive.

An important function of any official conservation agency is serving as a target for protests and complaints. All efforts to explain, enlighten, educate, run up against emotions we have inherited from prehistoric hunter-warrior ancestors. Public resistance to wildlife management practices is explained by the relatively new science of ethology—dealing with basic instincts.

Failing to kill a buck, the hunter agrees with a bartender that it is all the fault of the Conservation Department. He contends that wildlife biologists are arranging for the slaughter of does and fawns simply to favor their ridiculous theory that the deer population must be kept in balance with deer food.

Looking back over a long lifetime of active interest in Michigan outdoors, it is apparent that there has been progress. Sportsmen's organizations, half a century ago, devoted their meetings to a single theme — the shortcomings of conservation authorities.

In recent years sportsmen have become more and more knowledgeable. There is increased cooperation; less beefing. This has enabled the Conservation Department to be less concerned with fielding brickbats and to concentrate on constructive wildlife management. A veteran of two periods in conservation is Harry D. Ruhl, retiring as chief of the game division. For 36 years Ruhl succeeded, most of the time, in keeping his temper under fire, meanwhile giving active leadership to research and management.

Michigan is acknowledged to be a leading state in conservation of natural resources. Two years ago a division of research and development was organized, under the supervision of D. H. Jenkins. The 23rd published biennial report of the conservation department includes an outline of research programs. There are nine fishery research stations, covering all types of fishing in Lower and Upper Peninsula.

Three research centers deal with game problems in the two Michigan wildlife zones, which can be labeled farming and woodland; in the Upper Peninsula, the Cusino Wildlife Research Station; in the Lower, the Houghton Lake Station and the Rose Lake Station in East Lansing.

Rose Lake activities probably are of direct interest to the largest number of Michigan outdoor people. On a 3,300 acre tract of marginal farm land, intensive studies are being carried on with the principal species of Michigan wildlife, including farmland deer and waterfowl.

Since research and development are of No. 1 importance in the state-wide conservation program, we will return to the subject in weeks to come.

Housewife Heads GOP Involvement

LANSING (AP) — The Republican State Central Committee has appointed Mrs. Robert Davidson, an East Lansing mother and housewife, as state involvement chairman for the GOP. Mrs. Davidson will coordinate existing and future community service projects by Republican volunteers in such fields as urban renewal and juvenile crime.

Hart Defends Dissent Right

HARBOR BEACH (AP) — Sen. Philip Hart said Sunday that peace marchers may be prolonging the war in Vietnam, but warned that they have a right to protest.

"I heartily disagree with the get-out-of-Vietnam crowd, but any official action to silence them would make me very uncomfortable," Hart said.

He spoke at ceremonies dedicating Justice Frank Murphy's boyhood home as a state historical site. Murphy died in 1949 after serving as Michigan governor, U.S. attorney general and U.S. Supreme Court Justice.

The Democratic senator predicted that pressures to silence dissenters would grow as the war goes on and "Americans get increasingly short-tempered with those actions seem to help frustrate the quick settlement we all hope for."

But, he said, "all the reasonable protections and courtesies awarded to popular movements should be accorded equally to unpopular ones."

Detroit Edison Gives Rate Cuts

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission has other benefits it said will and other benefits it said will save a total of $7.23 million a year to customers of Detroit Edison Co.

Peter Spivak, commission chairman, said the total comes from an estimated $3.73 million in rate reductions and savings of $3.5 million to customers on installation of new appliances. The savings will be effective May 31.

$30,000 To U.S.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A retired Louisville man who wrote in his will "this bequest is made in gratitude to my beloved country" left most of his $30,000 estate to the federal government. Wilson Green, who owned some real estate and had a small vending business before his retirement, died recently at age 75.

FUN AND FEAR AROUND in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," part of "The Magic of the Stage," coming to Escanaba on May 11. Here, Sir Toby Belch (Fred Coffin) arranges a riotous duel between a disguised Viola (Paula Marchese), and a terrified Sir Andrew Aguecheek. "The Magic of the Stage," produced by the University of Michigan Professional Theatre Program and University Players, is performed under the auspices of the Michigan State Council for the Arts.

Ford Profits Slump By 43%

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's automotive Big Three had made it unanimous profits for the first quarter of this year plunged sharply.

Ford Motor Co. added its gloomy report Sunday to financial statements issued earlier by General Motors and Chrysler, all of which showed that earnings were hard hit by a slump in auto sales in the opening three months of 1967.

American Motors, fourth largest domestic auto company, but fifth in sales, is scheduled to release its financial report at a board of directors meeting today. The company is expected to show a loss of about $30 million for the six months period ending March 30.

AMC is the only U.S. auto firm on a fiscal year rather than a calendar year.

A Ford spokesman said the firm took the unusual step of releasing its report on Sunday because news already had leaked out that its profits had nosedived.

First quarter earnings were some 43 per cent below the profits reported for the opening three months of 1966.

Hayride Ends In Auto Crash, One Boy Loses Foot

LIVONIA (AP) — Eleven teenagers and two adults were injured Saturday night when two wagons being towed by a tractor in a hayride collided with an auto in Livonia.

Livonia police said the auto driver, Armen Barsamian, 42, of Garden City was injured seriously when his car bounced off the wagons, hit a tree and burst into flames.

Robert Leach, 16, of Farmington was the most seriously injured of the hayriding youngsters. His left foot was severed in the crash.

Needed Piano, Tyro Songwriter Held For Theft

DETROIT (AP) — Michael Simmons, 19, wants to be a songwriter but he doesn't have a piano.

Not because he didn't try, however, say Detroit police patrolmen James Harmon and Ray Burrows.

Harmon and Burrows said they spotted Michaels pushing a piano down a street on Detroit's East Side early Sunday and asked him where he was going.

"I'm taking it home," they quoted Simmons as saying. "I've written these lyrics for 150 songs or so, and I need this piano to set them to music to see what they sound like."

Simmons was held for investigation of theft when it was discovered that the piano came from a nearby school.

What does it take to shake up Pat Trombly?

A tough question? She gets them all day. Like: When will the installer be out? Can you put a telephone in my mother's apartment and have it billed to me? Why was my bill higher this month? Sometimes the questions get even tougher, but it's everyday stuff for Pat. She's a Service Representative in Detroit.

Has been for three years. Your questions are her business. Most times she's got the answers. If not, hold on. She'll get 'em. When a girl likes people as much as Pat Trombly does, she's pretty nice to talk to. Pleasant. Friendly. Hard to shake up, too. That's why we hired her.

The following persons were awarded prizes: Mrs. Carlton Nelson, Mary Niquette, Gary Babel, Mrs. Leo Portas, Painted Post, N.Y., Mrs. Nels Ebbesen, Dick Nordin, Bob Stevenson, Mrs. Les Caswell, Francis Rodgers, Mrs. David Sorg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atwater and Leonard Niquette.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Thank you and all the wise ones who pass on their helpful hints.

I've been saved many hundreds of steps recently, because I put my plastic and everyday dishes in the lower cabinets, so the children can reach them. I also put down a jar of spoons and the cereal.

Now my seven-year-old can set the table without climbing on a chair or getting me to hand down dishes.

Each child can get his own plastic drinking cup when he wants it.

Even my three-and-five-year olds can get their own bowl, spoon, glass and cereal for breakfast.

Mrs. Ector Gieves

Oh, another stepsaver for mothers. And to think the little ones are really playing house and learning at the same time.

You're great.
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For ladies who dislike using strong, sometimes harsh, shampoos, soaps, cleansing creams, etc.:

They will get much more pleasing results by using baby products for themselves; such as a mild baby shampoo, soap, baby oil for cleaning make-up from the face, baby lotion for softening hands and legs, etc.

By using this mild castile shampoo, one can shampoo as often as needed with no bad results.

Argentine Girl Is New Miss I. Beauty

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The newly crowned Miss International Beauty, the shy daughter of a chauffeur, says parading in a bathing suit embarrasses her.

Before Saturday night's nationally televised pageant, Mirta Teresita Massa said, "I wish I were back in my little house in Buenos Aires."

But the dark-haired, brown-eyed Miss Massa, 19, who had entered as Miss Argentina, was chosen by the judges as the most beautiful girl in the world. What will she do with the $10,000 first prize?

"I want to travel all over the world and buy antiques," she said.

"I want to buy a house for my parents and give them every comfort."

First runner-up in the 15th annual pageant was Miss Israel, Yaffa Sharir, a 21-year-old student from Haifa and veteran of the Israeli army. She is one of three contestants in the pageant under consideration for a part in a Gregory Peck movie, "Pamela Elford of East Orange, N.J., Miss American Beauty, was selected as second runner-up."

what I'm getting and what it weighs. I don't have to guess at the cooking time for such things as roasts.

Sure has saved me time and worry over whether I was cooking a certain kind of meat the correct number of hours in regard to its weight.

Dear Heloise:

Many times I have to make a belt for a dress, and very soon the material on the buckle wears away and gets that shabby look.

I found if I use iron-on tape the color of my dress on the back of the material before I cover my buckle, it will last much longer.

It holds better, and looks nicer, too.

17-year-old

Dear Heloise:

The only thing I have ever found that my children will eat ANY morning is orange toast.

This is just plain toast, buttered and sprinkled lightly or heavily with sugar, and an orange squeezed over it! Finger or fork food, they never get enough.

Practical Tips On Clothing Care

By Melton McGovern

Some drapery and slip-cover fabrics are not designed to be used as wearing apparel. The complaints are shrinkage from relaxation of the fabric or shrinkage because of heat sensitive fibers. If shrinkage is no more than one per cent, the shape of the garment is retained. At two per cent the feel is tight. At three per cent the look is gone, and at five per cent the garment is no longer wearable.

Colored napkins can stain. Light sponging action with a napkin and some cool water is the safest first aid treatment for most spots. But beware of paper napkins that contain dyes that will rub off. You could make a simple spot more colorful — and perhaps permanent. Brightly colored holiday napkins are often handy when spills occur, and we see quite an assortment of colorful stains. The culprit is frequently a paper napkin. Our best advice is: stay cool, test first, and bring it to your drycleaner as soon as possible.

Cosmetics stain

Here are some particular clothing care tips for particular people: Protect your clothing from cosmetics. For instance, be sure deodorants are dry. And don't apply perfume or cologne directly to a garment.

The alcohol in perfumes and colognes will bleed the dyes in some fabrics, especially acetate. Deodorants contain chlorides that can damage silk fibers and can also cause color changes in many fabrics.

U.S. Waterway Through State Seen By Year 2000

By PHILIP LEE

LANSING, Mich.—(NEA)—Imagine launching your boat from the Hudson River, traveling across nearly crystal-clear waters as wide as a football field is long and journeying to Alaska.

This not-so-wild dream of cross-continental water travel is destined as one by-product of a broad — contrary to present conservation beliefs, that is — montage of ideas focused on preserving and improving our most precious natural resource.

The concept could be triggered into reality by a project being designed for Michigan by a Lansing-based firm called John R. Snell Engineers, Inc. While in perspective a "Trans-Michigan Waterway" might seem small, so is a satellite to space or a diamond to a ton of coal.

"It is," said firm president Snell, "a marrying of many of my ideas." Quite a nuptial considering the accomplishment credentials and world-wide reputation of the man, born to medical missionary parents in Soochow, China, 54 years ago.

U.S. Waterway
"Yes, I think by the year 2000 we'll see a transcontinental waterway," Snell said, "and I think my project could be a reality in 5-10 years."

Snell is not alone in the department of schemes to revitalize America's water supply, just more advanced. The common bond is that their version of "Water, Water Everywhere" ends with plenty to drink and for all other needs; most of it's going to waste and the polluted mess we find ourselves in is far from incurable.

Some other projects in the talking and drawing-board stages are in Texas ($3.7 billion), New York, the Rockies and Northeast and the "Big One" that has hit the hopper in Washington — the $100 billion North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA) which would affect 33 states.

Fresh Approaches
Most feature fresh approaches that include:

- Creating huge reservoirs of water "banks" which would treat the resource as financial institutions reserve dollars.
- Cleaning up lakes, rivers and streams, providing adequate water for all and creating new recreational areas through firm management programs.
- Allowing governments, federal and state, to MAKE money rather than hand it out or make deadbeat loans.

In most cases, Canadian help is vital. As Snell contends: Reverse In Reverse
"We are not using the resources we have at hand. About 90 per cent of the water from the vast network of Canadian rivers goes to waste in Hudson Bay (quite a waste since Canada has one-third of the world's fresh water). It would be simple and economical to reverse the river flow to our direction into the Great Lakes," he said.

His blueprint, which he calls

MICHIGAN WATERWAY (insert) could be a key central link to a transcontinental waterway of the future, combining several projects. Some major systems planned include Texas, New York and the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA).

"sort of an urban renewal program in reverse," would use Lake Huron as an equalizing reservoir.

At the risk of oversimplification, water is jettied from Lake Huron into a five-mile channel to an 80-foot high regulating dam, in reverse to the natural flow of a small river in the Port Huron, Mich., area.

The pumping and damming continues across the state until the gravitational change point is reached (somewhere near Lansing) and the rest is downhill. Meanwhile, before the much-cleaner water is dumped into a half dozen outlets, a chain of 560 miles of channels — at least 15 feet deep and 300 feet wide — has been manufactured and 350 miles of existing rivers have been improved "to the highest possible quality."

Also created is 1,500 miles of shoreline for recreation and water development because of the open waterway dotted with dams and locks instead of a closed-pipe system.

Profit Venture
"This alone makes it a profit-making venture," Snell says. "If you sold the frontage wholesale for $100 a foot, you'd have the project paid for and $250 million left over."

But that's simply the bonus. The water reservoirs, managed by sort of a combined highway and water department, would also be a profitable government commodity "like a public utility or bank and pay for the project several times over," Snell said.

The canal appears as the crux of a transcontinental waterway since it's estimated 40 million acre-feet of water a year would flow into Lake Superior (picture an acre of land covered with water extending some 75,000 miles into the air.)

Using western drainage basins, water would also traverse the breadth of the United States to Mexico, developing eight times as much irrigated land as Egypt's Aswan Dam.

Taking advantage of seasonal and geological factors, water would be stored during early summer, similar to the principle used to pump natural gas from Texas north to abandoned fields for storage during low-peak periods.

An international co-operation treaty would be needed, but there are indications that Canada, a thorn that bled the side of Chicago in the lengthy Lake Michigan diversion court battle, may be coming around.

Texas Project
At an estimated cost of $3.7 billion, the proposal of Gov. John Connally would, in the next decade, begin a series of dams and reservoirs to pump water from Lake Texarkana in the "rich" northeast to south Texas.

Lake Champlain
Designed to affect the entire eastern seaboard, with the lake as the "equalizer," the idea is to connect with canals or channels the Hudson of New York and the Richelieu of Quebec, with offshoots west and north to the Great Lakes.

Experts feel realization could mean making the filthy Hudson almost picturesque as far north as Albany, N.Y.

Delaware River Basin
Plans for the next six years are for construction of more than 200 facilities to take care of pressing needs for New York, New Jersey, Delaware and part of Pennsylvania.

TVA
This successful operation is undertaking a water quality control program for seven southern states — Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Since hundreds of millions of dollars are spent every year on unco-ordinated water projects, it would appear a merger is inevitable and sensible to end the private, often petty, water wars (whether caused by pealouses or pork barreling).

All concerned feel a broad visionary view must be taken and the total picture may be best described by Moss. Referring to NAWAPA, he urged that the United States shouldn't be frightened by the magnitude of the undertaking, and said:

"To perform the great task before us, we may well need a program as farsighted as was the Louisiana Purchase."

That real estate deal cost only $15 million.

Baggage regulations on the Trans-Siberian Railroad allow "one bird in a cage" at no extra cost.

Oregon Birders Catch Goof On Postage Stamp

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When members of the Oregon Audubon Society saw a new 20-cent airmail stamp unveiled at the post office, they identified the bird on the stamp as a Central American magpie jay.

The stamp, however, was supposed to honor a Columbia River Basin jay.

The Post Office had picked the jay from among 400 Audubon prints of birds thought to be from North America.

But the bird was painted from a mounted specimen which had been mislabeled.

Michigan Ducks On 1-Man, 1-Vote Convention Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan apparently isn't going to move toward breaking a stalemate over calling a federal constitutional convention.

In March, Congress had received 32 petitions for a convention on the "one-man, one-vote" issue. Two more states must ask for a convention to consider whether the states, in a reversal of the Supreme Court's ruling, should be allowed to apportion one legislative house on a basis other than population.

Michigan has such a petition pending, but has taken no action. Gov. George Romney reportedly is against such an action.

Delaware, Maine, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin also have such petitions before their legislatures, but have taken no action.

The Constitution says Congress must call such a convention if it is asked by two-thirds of the states. Any amendments would have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states, or 38.

Sales, Use Tax Collections Up

LANSING (AP) — At least one economic indicator, state collection of sales and use taxes, turned upward again during April after two months of decline.

State Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock said intake for April was $58,477,161.66, an increase of just over $3.2 million or about 5.7 per cent over the total for April 1966.

Collections for February and March were below those of the year-ago months, breaking a string of 60 straight months during which revenue exceeded the total for the same month in the previous year.

Lock said an "apparent recovery in automobile sales after slow winter business" helped spur the April increase. "This is the first time in several months in which collections from this source have exceeded the same month a year ago," Lock said.

Copper Necklace Judged Best Of Crafts Showings

More than 100 craftsmen and guests attended the 8th annual Upper Peninsula Crafts Conference and Exhibit Saturday, April 29, at Michigan Tech, at Houghton.

The program was sponsored by the U.P. Crafts Council and Mrs. Ruth Scherer, Trout Lake, president of the UPCC, presided.

Thirty craftsmen from throughout the Upper Peninsula exhibited such crafts as pottery, metal work, jewelry, wood carvings, agate weaving, and rosemaling.

A copper necklace made by Mrs. Eila Karsikas, Laurium, was judged best copper item of the show. Mrs. Maude Kronquist, Ishpeming, took top award in the best use of copper or copper with another media category with her statue, "The Brass Section." The clay base figure was finished with a copper oxide stain.

Harkonen Speaks
The most artistic exhibit prize was awarded to the Eastern U.P. display representing the skills of several craftsmen in the different mediums. Cash awards of $10 each were made in the three categories.

A survey of U.P. crafts was presented by Paul Harkonen, marketing specialist of UPCCAP, during the morning conference program. He noted that according to a current study some 289 persons have been identified and partially classified as being engaged in or associated with the crafts in the U.P. The continuing study will undoubtedly reveal many more.

Most of these persons are classified as hobbyists or part-time and traditional craftsmen rather than full-time craftsmen, craftsmen-manufacturers or craftsmen-designers, Harkonen said.

"We have no full-time craftsmen in the U.P. because most of these persons have had to add other jobs to pay the mortgage or buy groceries," the marketing specialist said.

54 Gift Shops
Some 54 gift shops are located in 11 counties in the U.P. with an average of 5,000 customers each year, Harkonen stated.

He said that the crafts proposal made to the Economic Development Administration is "far from dead." There are many promising avenues for aid to help U.P. craftsmen strengthen their products and markets, he added.

The craftsmen also discussed the marketing of crafts in a panel discussion chaired by Dr. Michael Warlum of the University of Wisconsin. Panel members included Harkonen, Mrs. Violet Miller, Copper Harbor, and Mrs. Marion Gilles, Houghton.

Cultural Revolution
"The Midwest is undergoing a cultural revolution that can outstrip such centers as New York if local groups work together to attract new members and cultivate and stimulate present craftsmen," said Warlum.

We must create a regional image and promote the U.P. as a place in which to practice the crafts, said Harkonen. Our present isolated image can prove to be a valuable asset in the future.

Panel members stressed the idea that present procedures and products must be studied to build volume and quality in the crafts which is necessary for larger markets.

Many craftsmen noted that they are not receiving high enough prices to make a profit from their wares. The high costs of shipping goods to other markets was discussed.

Pallas Speaker
Harkonen said that UPCCAP and others are now tackling this problem. Industry is facing this identical problem, he added.

"Help is coming on this transportation dilemma via the industry route," said Harkonen. "We are presently studying the possibilities of pooling industrial goods to cut down the costs for each product."

James Pallas, a committee chairman of the newly organized Michigan State Council for the Arts, spoke to the group about many of the projects the Council is undertaking.

Organized in the summer of 1966, the Council is working in such areas of the arts as music, visual arts, communications, theatre, and community art.

Three traveling exhibits of paintings, drawings and prints are already available to groups throughout the state, Pallas said. The only costs to a sponsoring group are those for one-way transportation of the exhibit.

The visual arts committee, of which Pallas is chairman, also is arranging to bring visiting lecturers in art and artists in residence to communities and groups.

NMU Judges
G. Ralph Noble, Michigan Tech University; Mrs. Brockway Myers, president of the Copper Country Associated Artists; and Fletcher Johnston, manager of the Keweenaw Playhouse, also spoke.

Northern Michigan University art faculty members Marvin and Monica Zehnder, Michael Gorski and Owen Shapiro served as roving consultants and judged the exhibits.

Demonstrations of weaving, rosemaling, copper tooling and enameling were made by several members of the crafts council.

The council paid special tribute to Charles Folio, University of Michigan, for his continued efforts toward improving the crafts industry in the Upper Peninsula.

The Copper Country Associated Artists, displayed paintings during the program and the Michigan State Library Branch, Escanaba, presented an exhibit of crafts books at the conference.

Name Chairmen
Assisting the UPCC at the conference were UPCCAP, the Michigan State Council for the Arts, the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, North Michigan University and the Michigan Technological University.

UPCC officers are Mrs. Ruth Scherer, Trout Lake, president; Charles Folio, Escanaba, vice-president; and Mrs. Niron Virch, Marquette, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the conference planning committee included Mrs. Alice Reynolds and Mrs. Eino Miller, co-chairmen; Folio and Douglas Rappley, Michigan Technological University; Harkonen and Thomas Vizan-

Anglers Outnumber Trout Opening Day

By The Associated Press
There were more fishermen than fish in evidence as the trout season opened in Michigan. Cloudy weather with scattered showers was blamed for holding down the catch in the most popular fishing territories in the northern Lower Peninsula.

An estimated 100,000 fishermen tried their luck in the fast-running streams and rivers over the weekend. For many of them it was bad.

Spot checks showed that the fish just weren't biting in most places, or those that were biting weren't the right kind.

"A lot of them were catching suckers—despised trash fish—instead of trout," said Ken Haines of the Roscommon office of the State Conservation Department.

Not everyone was disappointed. In the headwaters of the Manistee River, west of Gaylord, Phil Peck and his son Bob pulled out 13 fine trout in a few hours of fishing. Peck is deputy director of the State Department of Administration.

California, in 1964, had 1,269,452 acres in fruit trees, nuts and grapes.

Ludvigsen Is Elected Eaton Board Chairman

E. M. de Windt

Elliot L. Ludvigsen was elected chairman of the board and president since December, 1963 of the major producer of control systems and general products, materials handling and construction equipment, truck and off-highway components, passenger car products and locks and builders' hardware. He was a member of the team which built the Fuller Manufacturing Co. into the world's leading independent producer of truck and off-highway vehicle transmissions, and was president of this company when it became a subsidiary of Eaton in 1958.

Mr. de Windt advanced through the divisional ranks to vice president and director of sales of the corporation. Six years ago, he was named group vice president-international and late in 1966 he was elected executive vice president-operations. Mr. de Windt is a director of the Cleveland Trust Co., Pickands Mather, "Automatic" Sprinkler Corp. and the Cleveland Clinic.

In other executive moves by the board, F. I. Goodrich, a director of Eaton Yale & Towne and formerly vice president-corporate services, was named executive vice president-corporate services.

Melvin C. Arnold, formerly secretary and associate counsel, became vice president and general counsel succeeding Raymond G. Hengst who retired under Eaton Yale & Towne's retirement program and returned to the general practice of law.

R. T. Sadler, formerly assistant secretary, was elevated to secretary and associate counsel. Virden has been a director since 1946 and chairman since March, 1957 as well as president from January, 1957 to the end of 1963. Under his leadership, the company instituted and actively pursued a growth-through-diversification program which has increased sales by over 300 per cent since 1958 and net profit by about 500 per cent.

Ford And Mobil Plan Study To Curb Exhaust

Ford Motor Co. and Mobil Oil Corp. announce plans for a cooperative research project aimed at early development of virtually emission-free, gasoline-powered vehicles.

An estimated $7 million will be spent over the three year study, one of the largest joint research efforts undertaken by private industry. Provision is made so that others may participate in the project. All participants will have full access to and free use of results of the research for anti-pollution purposes.

Ford will serve as project manager in a "systems approach" study of a wide range of combinations of engine design and fuel. It is expected the study will lead to development of a fuel-engine system that will virtually eliminate automotive emissions (exhaust) with minimum cost to the consumer and minimal effect on car performance.

Tuesday's Trial Gets Big Race Week On Way

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

The big week in American thoroughbred racing opened today with just one prep—and that of questionable status—remaining before Saturday's 93rd running of the Kentucky Derby.

The prep is Tuesday's one-mile $15,000-added Derby Trial with six Derby eligibles probable starters, and barring an upset, only three of these—Cool Reception, Barb's Delight and Lightning Orphan—are likely to be in the 1 1/4 miles of the Derby.

Cool Reception, owned by Mrs. W. J. Seitz and Mrs. Vincent Reid of Toronto, is expected to draw the most support from bettors Tuesday.

The son of Nearctic, who also sired 1964 Derby winner, Northern Dancer, has won twice in five starts as a 3-year-old, including the Fort Lauderdale Handicap at 1 1/4 miles April 8 at Gulfstream Park.

Lightning Orphan, owned by Freeman Keyes of Chicago, has finished second in all three starts this year.

Barb's Delight, product of Kentucky's hard boot company, chalked up five victories in six starts last year for his three owners—Gene Spalding, Guy Huguelet and trainer Hal Steele Jr., but was a badly beaten seventh in the rich Garden State Stakes. This year, however, he has been something less than sensational.

Sleepy Pat, Glenary, Monitor and Betemint are the other likely Trial starters.

In other Derby doings, Ruker, the Santa Anita Derby winner, enhanced his stature by winning the seven-furlong Stepping Stone Saturday at Churchill Downs, home of the Kentucky Derby.

Trainer Clyde Turk summed up the California-bred colt's performance in two words, "real good."

Dr. Isby, another Californian, finished 2 1/2 lengths behind Ruker, and 78-year-old trainer Frank Childs, winner in 1959 with Tony Lee, said he would be back Saturday. However, trainer Henry Forest, who saddled 1966 Derby winner Kauai King, said Balout, third in the Stepping Stone, probably would not be in the Derby.

Ruker, owned by Louis Rowan, now has won three straight and is rated the second Derby favorite at 3-1.

Favored Damascus, 7-5, spent a lazy day Sunday, staying out of the rain. The Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft-owned winner of Aqueduct's Bay Shore and Wood Memorial is scheduled to work out Tuesday.

Cool Reception, Louisiana Derby winner, Ask The Fare and Wheatley Stable's Successor, 1966 2-year-old champion, all galloped in the rain at Churchill Downs Sunday.

Reason To Hail, the California Derby winner, became the last probable Derby starter to arrive at the Downs, coming in by plane from New York Sunday.

Teacher Code

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education will hold a public hearing Wednesday at the Michigan School for the Blind in Lansing on proposed changes in the teacher certification code. The code, essentially unchanged since it was adopted in 1939, has been in the process of revision for several years. The proposed new code has the tentative approval of the board.

ACTRESS CLAUDIA CARDINALE poses with her son, Patrick, 8, at her villa near Rome in this picture. Miss Cardinale said Patrick thinks she is his sister and now she will have to explain the truth to him. Patrick's existence and Miss Cardinale's secret marriage to producer Franco Cristaldi last year were reported recently by Italian magazines. Cristaldi said the boy is not his. Miss Cardinale said Patrick was born in London in 1958. She did not identify the father. (AP Wirephoto via cable from Rome)

Whirlpool Sales Up; Profits Down

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Whirlpool Corp. reports higher sales but lower profits for the first three months of this year. Elisha G. Gray II, board chairman, attributed the drop in profits to start-up costs in new plants, higher wage and material costs and rising interest rates on borrowed money.

Sales for the first quarter of this year were up $10 million from the $163,355,000 last year. Earnings fell to $4,634,000 or 40 cents a share compared with the $9,407,000 or 81 cents a share for the similar period last year.
